Sudden Death

The Antioch neighborhood was shocked last Tuesday, the 21st, to hear of the death of Miss Delia Cook, her closest neighbors not even knowing that she was ill.

She and her sister and some friends were in Somerville Monday, and they say she was very lively and seemed in the best of health.

Soon after returning she was taken suddenly very ill, and a physician was called, who gave some simple remedies for indigestion which she said was caused by eating some sweet potatoes at a restaurant which she said at the time did not taste right.

The next morning she seemed much better, but about noon she grew much worse, and died before her father and the physician he had gone after arrived. The Dr. pronounced the cause of her death, acute indigestion.

Miss Delia was about 27 years old, and was highly respected and loved for her kind disposition, and faithfulness to her church, Sunday School and her friends.

See had been a consistent member of of the Antioch church for several years, and was very seldom absent from her services.

The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of every one.

May God bring comfort to their broken hearts. WILLIE.

County Court in Quarterly Session

The County Court of Fayette county met in regular quarterly session Tuesday morning with 31 Justices present, the new Justice from the fourth district R. N. Garnett Esq., being present for his first time since his recent election.

The session was a most eventful one from the beginning. It will be remembered that the July work of the court was not completed and the court adjourned then expecting to receive the report from Nashville on the county tax values in a very short time and that it would then be called by Chairman Shelton in an adjourned session to complete its docket and fix the tax rate for the current year. The tax valuations from the State Board of Equalization was not received until last week and the adjourned session was not called by the chairman. The court first completed the July docket, appointed R. B. Young Esq., J. J. Steger Esq., and J. A. Weber Esq., as a tax committee, and adjourned its session and reassembled at once in the regular October session.

The regular order of the court were then proceeded with, election of officers, and miscellaneous items taking some time. These matters continued into the afternoon and as they were completed and the court was about ready to begin its October docket the tax committee appeared in court with their report on the tax rate for the year and this report was read by Esq. Young. The committee recommended a rate of 87 cents on the $100, divided as follows: Schools 20 cents, Highways 27 cents, special note fund 4 cents, General fund 10 cents, State 26 cents. A lengthy discussion followed the reading of these figures and continued until adjourning time in the late afternoon, the rates being fixed finally as follows: schools 20 cents, special note fund 4 cents, general fund 8 cents highway fund 20 cents, state 26 cents, a total of 78 cents on each $100 of property.

As explained by speakers, these rates mean an increase in all the funds except the general fund which will be about the same or a little less than it was last year. The largest increase is in the state fund. The total state tax last year was 55 cents on $100, not counting the state school tax of 15 cents which was levied by the state but never left the county. This made the county's state tax last year about $28,000 on her valuation of a little more than $5,000,000. This year's valuations have been raised to $20,000,000 and the 26 cents of state tax will make the county's state tax this year $52,000, an increase of $24,000, or nearly 100 per cent increase.

The schools will receive about $16,000 more than they had last year and this sum has provided for the increases in the salaries of the teachers.

The other increases are not as large. The total tax budget for the county this year will be in round numbers $160,000, where it has been $110,000 under the old valuations and rates, an increase amounting to about $50,000, half of which increase goes to increase the state tax and $16,000 goes to the school fund increase, leaving $10,000 increase for all the other funds.

The court lived up to its past record of meeting the needs of the schools and fixed a rate that furnishes just about the estimates made by the school authorities and submitted by them to the tax committee, and he said to the credit of the court that in the discussion of the several rates not one suggestion was made by any speakers of reducing the suggested school rate. The court has long had the reputation of liberality toward its schools and it has enabled her schools to run nine full months and the school fund to keep out of overdrafts, while neighboring counties have had to shorten their terms and run so behind that warrants were hawked about and sold at considerable discounts. We never want to see this in Fayette county and do not look for such a condition.

The rate fixed by this county is 22 cents under the lowest rate we have seen fixed in other counties, no county heard from fixing a rate under $1.00 on $100, while most counties go above this figure. Hardman fixed $1.20 on each $100, and Tipton $1.20. But both counties appear much worse behind in funds at the present time. In fact few counties in the state have ever had as low a rate as Fayette, and few have as small overdraft or debts of any kind at present as Fayette. One neighbor we know has an overdraft in her school fund alone, about equal to Fayette's entire debts of every nature, and people who would have one believe this county is in a bad fix financially should look to other counties and compare conditions.

The rate of 78 cents is a mighty low rate as compared with other counties and we are just hoping that the county can live within the revenue that this rate produces.

The court re-assembled Wednesday morning with 24 Justices present, and took up the docket for the October term, which docket was one of the long est terms which the quarterly court has had before it at a single term in a long time, and which contained well above 100 items to be acted upon. Fair progress was made in the disposition of these numbers through the day and no long drawn arguments took up the time of the court, and yet it was not until about five o'clock when the docket was completed.

Appropriations made were rather larger than at the average term of quarterly court, in spite of the fact that frequent references was made to the necessity for economizing. And the bills ordered paid amounted to a very large total, the fact of the court not being able to complete the July docket until Tuesday being responsible for a goodly portion of those which came about by emergency work done on bridges since July.

Applications for $400 for continuing the Home Demonstration Agent for next year and $1000 for the Farm Agent were both denied, this meaning that the county will be deprived of these agents next year unless favorable action is taken on these applications at the January term.

The court spent a very busy two days and turned out a lot of work, clearing the dockets for both July and October terms.
